

PELLAGRA, CHOLERA AND TUBERCULOSIS: THREE DISEASES AND THE WAY THEY ARE REFLECTED IN “THE TRANSYLVANIA GAZETTE” IN THE PERIOD 1882-1900

L. ROGOZEA^{}, A. FLEANCU^{},
C. BORZAN^{}, I. KATAINEN^{}, D. ION^{*}

Abstract: Pellagra, cholera and tuberculosis are three of the most common diseases which affect the population from Transylvania in the period of the end of the XIXth century. The Romanian journalist and the doctor of that period was involved in educate the population for be able to take measure to reduce the morbidity of the diseases and, of course to improve the addressability of the patients to doctor. The Transylvanian Gazette is one of the most famous journal of that period where we discover a lot of article in this field.

Key words: pellagra, cholera, tuberculosis, Transylvania Gazette.

^{*} Faculty of Medicine, Transylvania University of Braşov.

^{} University “Iuliu Haţieganu” Cluj-Napoca

^{} University of Jyväskylä – Finland

^{*} University Carol Davila Bucuresti